WITHOUT NAME FOR 2 DAYS, MAN GETS HIS MEMORY BACK

Victim of Amnesia in Baltimore Hospital Identifies Self With Detective's Aid.

BALTIMORE, May 27.—Headquarters Detective T. W. Quirk strolled into the Volunteers of America Hospital, Lexington street, near Eutaw, last night and asked Capt. John A. Logan to point out the victim of amnesia who had been in the hospital two days without being able to identify himself. Quirk figured he knew enough to help the man himself.

"Do you know who I am?" asked Quirk, as he drew up a chair beside the patient.

"No."

"Well, I know you—you're John J. Pierce, of Philadelphia," replied the detective.

"You're right; Pierce is my name. Yes, Pierce, John J. Pierce."

"And you live at 530 North Seventh street, Philadelphia. You are married and have a wife and child," continued Quirk.

"I'm mighty glad to meet you," the patient returned. "You have helped me out of an unpleasant place."

Quirk had received his information over the telephone from Philadelphia.

Pierce said until Monday he was employed at the Aldine Hotel, Chestnut and Nineteenth streets. All that Captain Logan and nurses at the hospital had been able to get from Pierce was that he was from Philadelphia.

Pierce declared he was unable to account for his loss of memory, but on close questioning he remembered having quit work late Monday night at the hotel and having boarded a trolley car. He told the detective he remembered something about falling from a trolley car at Seventh and Chestnut streets and a man offering to aid him.

The lapse in memory, Pierce said, began after his fall. Pierce was unable to tell the detective how he reached this city. He was found wandering aimlessly a few blocks from Camden Station Tuesday. Mrs. Pierce will come here today to take her husband home.

FIREMEN WORK VAINLY TO SAVE BABY'S LIFE

COVINGTON, Ky., May 27.—After having worked for two hours on what they say was the hardest job they have been called to yet, the firemen of this city learned with much regret late today that their heroic efforts have been in vain. Late last night there was born to Mrs. James J. Owens, a baby girl. Almost everybody in the neighborhood had in one way or another prayed that it might live. For two hours a great crowd stood in front of the house waiting for good news from the mother's bedside, where a squad of firemen were working with a lungmotor to pump air into the baby's lungs. The firemen made it breathe. It lived until late today.

Dr. Charles G. Pieck, attending physician, noticed heart beats when the baby was born, but the lungs were not working. He made a call to the fire department.

"We never went so fast in our lives," said Tom Davis, assistant chief, who drove the big fire wagon. "I have eight children of my own."

FREIGHT RATE CUTS FAIL TO SPEED UP LUMBER TRAFFIC

Pacific Coast Shippers Disappointed, Railroad Official Tells Senate Committee.

By H. K. REYNOLDS, International News Service.

Stimulation of traffic in lumber from the Pacific coast has not resulted from reduced freight rates and existing rates on coal and grain have not impeded the shipment of these commodities, according to testimony given in the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee's railroad inquiry today by Edward Chambers, vice president of the Atchafalaya, Topeka and Santa Fe Railroad Company.

The rates on lumber to Chicago and the Mississippi River were reduced from 80 cents per hundred to 73 cents, Chambers said, and to Kansas City and Omaha from 73 cents to 66 cents, these adjustments being satisfactory to the interested shippers.

"Reports indicate, however," Chambers said, "that the Pacific coast lumber shippers are rather disappointed in the effect the reduced rates had on the movement. It is no better now than it was before the rates were reduced."

Discussing the movement of coal, Chambers submitted a statement that shipments of both bituminous and anthracite were much heavier during the last six months of 1920 than during the first half of the year, despite the increase in rates which became effective on August 26.

ROM FORCES RACE FOR RICHES AS DRY REGIME TOTTERS

Stream of Liquor Flows Across Canadian and Mexican Borders Following Dismissals.

By W. H. ATKINS, International News Service.

Liquor lawlessness upon a wider scale, has followed the dropping of 700 "dry" agents, according to reports today to the prohibition unit of the Treasury.

Reports from those areas of the country which still are listed as very "wet" by Treasury officials, show that illicit vendors of whiskey are obtaining larger fresh supplies from manufacturers of illicit whiskey.

From the rural districts, particularly the mountainous sections, officials were advised that new operations have been begun by makers of "moonshine" whiskey.

DRYS ARE POWERLESS.

In the face of these reports the Government's "dry" law force is virtually powerless, as there only remains what amounts to merely an office enforcement organization.

Prohibition Commissioner Cramer today still hoped for action by the Senate, approving the needed $200,000 to rebuild the organization.

Prohibition officials fear that illicit makers and sellers of whiskey will be able to obtain surplus stocks, to carry them long after the new appropriations become available July 1.

IMPORTS CREEP IN.

The inevitable increase in smuggled whiskey, predicted by Treasury officials, is also in evidence. Imported whiskey in larger quantities is finding its way across the Canadian border and is being delivered as far south as the Ohio river. Smuggled whiskey is also coming across the Mexican border and into Florida and Georgia from Cuba, in ever increasing amounts. Liquor from this source is now reaching consumers as far north as Washington and Baltimore. Some few shipments have even gone as far as New York from the southern ports, through which they were brought.

Officials said their hands have been practically tied in the matter of checking the activities noted, and they are frank in stating that the whole country before July 1, probably will be as "wet" as it was a year ago, when whiskey poured out of bonded warehouses, under loosely built regulations, in an endless stream for the bootleg trade.
